

CONTENTS

'lk

EDITORIAL Editor; Dr. Ranjith Dayaratne, Department of Architecture and Interior Design, University of Bahrain, Bahrain.	i
Poem to celebrate the seamless synergy of stone and timber: Ormana - a village located in the Taurus within southern Anatolia Murat Şahin Department of Architecture, Özyeğin University, Istanbul, Turkey Ayşe Ozbil Department of Architecture and Built Environment Northumbria University, UK.	1-16
Reminiscences of Ottoman vernacular in Galata Luca Orlandi Özyeğin University, Faculty of Architecture and Design, Istanbul, Turkey.	17-32
Vernacular architecture in Crete, Greece: The Bey Sekeria Ottoman mansion of Heraklio Eleni I. Kanetaki & Georgios P. Antoniou	33-49
Vernacular and Style relations: Architectural Developments of Macedonian Cities from 19th - 20th Century Kokan Grchev & Olgica Grcheva Department of Architecture, Eastern Mediterranean University, N.Cyprus	50-62
Aiming Towards the Sky: The Vernacular 'skyscrapers' of the South-West Balkans Velika Ivkowska Bahçeşehir University, Faculty of Architecture, Istanbul, Turkey	63-76